The City of Winchester's Office of Housing and Neighborhood Development recently undertook a study to evaluate fair housing in the Northern Shenandoah Valley. In the evaluation it was noted that there is a lack of understanding of the state and federal housing laws.

In an effort to eliminate one of the largest impediments to fair housing, four fair housing trainings have been scheduled to better further fair housing in the Northern Shenandoah Valley.

State and Federal fair housing laws prohibit discrimination in housing based on race, color, religion, national origin, sex, elderliness, familial status, and disability.
